

IB Learner Profile Task Thursday – Traits You See!

Read to students:

Today you will watch a short video about the “Power of the Pen”. With tomorrow being considered a “day of love” with love letters being sent around the world, think about how you can help spread more love and joy around the world.

The young lady you are about to watch is named Hannah Brencher. She believes in the power of a pen and paper and has started a global initiative that encourages strangers to exchange love letters.

As you watch, try to identify what Learner Profile trait she possesses and record your thoughts on the activity page as to the reason why you paired the learner profile trait with her actions. In addition, write 3-4 sentences on how you might help spread more love and joy at school and/or our local community.
