

Our steps to be ready Monday

Dear Families and Staff,

Our number one priority is to ensure our school is ready for our scholars and staff Monday.

SAISD has about 50 HVAC specialists comprehensively checking heating systems and analyzing conditions site-by-site across the district. As your principal, I also am working collaboratively with the Facilities team, prioritizing specific areas of our campus that need focused attention.

I want to assure you that the temperatures will be comfortable at our campus on Monday. Some areas may require further attention, but rest assured we will work around these isolated areas to ensure there are warm and appropriate learning spaces for all of our scholars and staff.

Please know that all scholar absences during the four days of this week automatically will be counted as excused absences and will NOT be counted against our scholars for participation in our campus's January attendance incentive. There is no need to send parent notes. Additionally, local perfect attendance reports will exclude these days from calculation.

I will continue to communicate with you over the weekend. Please keep a watchful eye for another message from me on Sunday. Information also will be posted to the district website and social media channels.

Thank you for your patience and understanding. We are ready to welcome you Monday!

Sincerely,
Brandy B. Lewis, Principal
